Providing sources of essential fatty acids will aid feather quality. Prune these tangle-prone vines in winter after harvest. Two figures, one turned toward the viewer and the other facing the trees, use a torch to startle the birds into flight, then run about using cudgels to beat the pigeons out of the air.

Fast-forward five years and their world has been transformed into a more orderly one. I recognise that winter is the time to get on with planning and creating a garden, and beds need to be ready by spring.
