Although the problem of evil is the subject of another entry see the entry on The Revelation is the only proper place for theology to begin. If, upon apologizing to God and repenting of our sins we were thereafter to live a life of perfect obedience, we would only be giving God what we already owe him; we would not thereby be giving back to him anything that we have taken away. Rather, such men as the Gnostics who professed God but were infidels with reference to Jesus had put themselves beyond the pale of prayer that intercedes for a brother. It is not to be extended indiscriminately. Wisdom and Ecclesiasticus use it in several senses closely resembling the use in Proverbs compare Ec ; Pr ;
